

Job description – Outreach Intern
Pueblito Canada

Organizational Profile:

Pueblito Canada is an international development agency dedicated to improving the lives of children in Latin America. For almost 35 years Pueblito has been helping the youngsters of Latin America by strengthening communities, safe-guarding rights, and providing the essentials for education, nutrition, and health. Working in partnership with local non-governmental organizations, Pueblito provides capacity building and financial assistance to develop culturally appropriate, innovative programs that benefit children and youth directly. Our programs involve and mobilize the family and community to ensure sustainability.

Description:

The intern will work to engage with Pueblito's community by creating and delivering interactive workshops about transformative education and children's rights. These workshops will engage with churches, service clubs and schools and will focus on informing our community of the need for a new vision for quality education in the global South and at home.

Responsibilities:

Together with the Development and Outreach Officer the intern will work to develop, and deliver interactive workshops to the Pueblito community. This will include planning, logistics and facilitation.

The internship will run from January-December 2012 at 8-10 hours per week.
